Igloo Mountain, Tributary Creek, Polychrome Mountain, Middle Toklat, Stony Hill, Mount Galen, Moose Creek, Stony Creek (Unit 29,30,31,32,33,34,35,39)

Low brush gives way to dry tundra as elevation increases. Spruce, birch, and willows near waterways. Bear and wolf dens, important winter area for moose, good sheep habitat, many raptor sites throughout the region. Closures include the northern tip of the Sable Pass closure and both sides of the Toklat River just north of the park road. Few archeological sites around Stony. There are 7 cabins.

Unobstructed views and less dense brush make this region popular with day and overnight users. Areas farther from park road receive low to moderate use. Natural quiet often experienced although some air traffic diminishes opportunities for solitude. In summer, farther from popular access points, wilderness character is good; excellent in winter.
